Friends forever

Trunks opened the window of his room very, very slowly. All the time mindful of his father's super sensitive Saiyain ears. He would not like what Trunks was about to do if he found out about. Trunks shuddered involuntarily. He did not want to find out how his father would react if he ever found out what he and Goten intended to do tonight. Vegeta was always yelling at him for even talking to Goten.

He stepped out into the cool night air. His soft purple hair was blown gently by the wind. The stars shone bright as he looked up into the pitch black night sky. He closed his eyes briefly for just a moment. Was he sure he wanted to do this? He opened his eyes and resolve surfaced on his face. Goten was his best friend, his ally in combat and yes he really, really wanted to do this. With that he took off towards his and Goten's secret hide out.

He found Goten pacing nervously inside the cave. Though he stopped when he felt Trunks enter and smiled that vacant Son smile. 'I thought you chickened out.' He said.

Trunks glared at him, 'Don't be ridiculous.' Than he smiled, 'Or are you indirectly telling me something about your own state of mind.'

Goten turned red at that and barked, 'Can we get on with this?'
Trunks nodded all the time the amused smile remained on his face. But his face took on a somber cast when Goten turned to what looked like fire pit and started a fire with a weak KI blast.

Each of them took up a position on either side of the fire and sat cross-legged. Each of them looked into the other's eyes and gulped in a breath. Goten reach out with left hand and picked up a sharp flat stone. Trunks also picked up a sharp flat stone only with his right hand. Than they made strait vertical cut on the palm of the other hand right down the middle.

Holding his cut palm upright and flat over the fire Trunks said slowly, 'Friends forever.'

'Friends forever.' Goten agreed and the joined their palms above the fire. Letting their blood mingle, opening their minds up to each other, forging a bond of friendship stronger than any known to humans. The two of them flared into full battle aura, unconsciously.
Their hair flared upwards and turned golden, their eyes emerald green.

Their aura's mingled and inter twined. Finally the two of them separated. Breathing hard and shuddering. Each of them bonded to the other for life.

'So.' Said Goten finally, 'Now that we are friends for life and all, can I ask you something?' Trunks nodded, 'Can I date your sister?'

Trunks blinked, smiled than said very, very seriously, 'Okay, but if you make-out in front of me, ever, I will kill you both?'

Goten thought for a moment, 'Deal.' Smiling they said their good byes and left to sneak back home.

From a distant two figures watched. Finally one of them spoke, 'Vegeta, do you think they really thought that we wouldn't find out about this?

Vegeta nodded his head, 'Yes, Kakarott. As far as our brats are concerned we live in another world.'

Goku thought for a minute before asking, 'Should we tell them?'

'Nah,' said Vegeta, 'let them think they have some secret pact, with each other that no one knows about. I think it makes them feel special or something.'

Grinning Goku asked, 'Since we are here, want to spar?' Vegeta shrugged and followed Goku their sparring place.
